Ice Brewed Coffee

With Brewing Equipment...

The popularity of cold coffee is growing worldwide. Serving coffee as a cold beverage with flavors, sweeteners and milks has become so popular which the traditional method of preparation does not allow the operators to keep up, thus the customer is not served and sales are lost.

The preparation of cold coffee was first introduced in Japan in the early 70's, the drip method of brewing was used with cold water. The same reasons of supply and demand, the Japanese developed an Ice Brewed recipe which utilizes hot water to infuse the coffee and accelerate the extraction process from a coffee brewer. The brewed coffee is chilled down immediately after brewing utilizing ice stored in a container. The end result is a 1-2 Gallon cold coffee recipe which is brewed and ready for serving within a 10-15 minute preparation time, versus several hours needed using cold water method.

The Newco Ice Brewed Cold Coffee System design utilizes a 3.5 gallon visual and/or non-visual dispensers and drip tray for behind the counter or self-serve applications. The containers are portable, can easily be transported to a refrigerated environment. The system includes a 2 compartment ice container which is designed to fit into the dispenser to hold ice for quick chill dilution as well as independent ice compartment for keeping the coffee beverage chilled. The ice compartment is easily removed from the dispenser for refilling to handle the quick brew process. All of the dispensers have a lid designed to maintain sanitation of the coffee in the dispensers.
